6.1 Summarize any data-driven EPP-wide or programmatic modifications, innovations, or changes planned, worked on, or completed in the last academic year.

This is an opportunity to share targeted continuous improvement efforts your EPP is proud of. Focus on one to two major efforts the EPP made and the relationship among data examined, changes, and studying the results of those changes.

The school's quality assurance system was put to the test during the pandemic. The ability to collect data on completers has continued to be a challenge. Schools and teachers are already stretched thin and adding another task was not helpful. Our number one goal was to serve the schools and the districts by providing support when possible. Therefore, the following goals were established: Implement the new data management system
Revise all key assessments and update/ rename based on the input from stakeholders
Improve the system for reporting and using data for program changes
Use Google forms for data analysis
Implement the streamlined system for reporting for SACSCOC

The school's quality assurance system was put to the test during the pandemic. The ability to collect data on completers has continued to be a challenge. Schools and teachers are already stretched thin and adding another task was not helpful. Our number one goal was to serve the schools and the districts by providing support when possible.

The EPP explored two initiatives:

1. Urban Education
2. Implementation of Alabama Literacy Act

EPP faculty began the process of examining data related to the Science of Reading instruction. ALSDE initiated a comprehensive external audit of all literacy courses in the state of Alabama. EPP faculty worked with the Barksdale group to collect data on candidates' ability to implement multisensory strategies. The data was collected and is still being processed for use in program improvement. Pre-emptively, EPP literacy faculty, completely revised courses, designed brand new literacy key assessments and is convening a new Literacy Task Force comprised of former candidates, literacy practitioners and administrators to review course work, content and key assessments.

Another area of continuous improvement centers on urban education. After feedback from several local partners, the EPP was wanted to further investigate candidates' ability to work in urban settings. It was determined that further data needed to be collected. Therefore, the EPP convened two focus groups to collect more information- one focus group of administrators from local urban schools as well as completers who work/worked in urban schools. The data from the focus groups will inform EPP faculty of next steps.

For advanced programs, EPP faculty have been working together to revise rubrics to better align with standards.
