

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, SOCIOLOGY DEPARTMENT
(9-month, Tenure-Track Appointment)
December 13, 2024

REVISED: To extend application deadline from January 31, 2025 to February 15, 2025

Samford University's Howard College of Arts and Sciences invites individuals interested in working in a Christian university environment to apply for the position of Assistant Professor of Sociology beginning in Fall 2025. Qualified candidates will either hold a Ph.D. or be ABD, near completion, in sociology, criminology, or a closely related field from an institutionally accredited university, or equivalent, at the time of appointment. This tenure-track, full-time faculty position is a 9-month appointment with a twenty-four (24) credit hour teaching load per academic year, as well as expectations for active research and service agendas.

We are seeking a broadly trained sociologist who incorporates Geographic Information Systems (GIS) into their teaching and research. Preference for teaching and research experience in one or more of the following areas: criminology/deviance, social stratification, or environmental sociology. This individual will teach introductory courses in GIS and sociology. Additional upper-level courses will be designed according to expertise. All faculty are expected to mentor undergraduate research, as well as advise and recruit majors. The applicant we hire will also teach in our interdisciplinary University Core Curriculum (Core-Curriculum).

The geography and sociology department is a dynamic department with 4 geography professors, 4 sociology professors, and approximately 45 majors. In addition to a B.S. in Geography (major and minor) and B.A. in Sociology (major and minor), our department also offers minors in Environmental Studies, Race, Ethnicity, and Social Justice, and Geographical Information Science. The program is undergraduate only and focuses on providing a rigorous liberal arts education with engaging learning experiences and research opportunities for our students.

Samford University (samford.edu) is a leading nationally ranked Christian University. Founded in 1841, Samford is the 87th oldest institution in the U.S. and the largest privately supported and fully accredited institution for higher learning in Alabama. Located in the Birmingham, Alabama, suburb of Homewood, with 425 full-time faculty and more than 6,100 students representing 45 states and 16 countries, Samford is ranked #2 in the nation for student character development and #8 in the nation for the quality of career preparation provided to students as listed in The Wall Street Journal (2025). The University is dedicated to the promotion of rigorous academic inquiry in a Christian setting. The University seeks and prefers employee applicants of the Christian faith and offers competitive salaries with a generous benefits package. Samford University and Howard College of Arts and Sciences embrace diversity in their faculty, students, and staff and encourage applications from those who would add to the diversity of our academic community.

Application deadline is February 15, 2025. Review of applications will begin January 15, 2024. Please submit an application letter, curriculum vitae with names and contact information of three references, description of teaching experience, description of research interests and activities, along with an application for faculty position and the faculty applicant Christian mission statement (links below). Salary and academic rank are dependent upon qualifications and experience. The successful candidate must pass a background check. Applicants must be authorized to work in the United States, as Samford will not sponsor any employment visa for this position.
